Roses are red, violets are blue,
If you get another valentine,
I will kill you...
