Lea Hall Miners Welfare Centre, Rugeley

The reasons for the decision to not list the Lea Hall Miners Welfare Centre are as follows:

1. The Welfare Centre lies within the District of Cannock Chase. The nomination covers an area of land shown as edged red in a plan associated with a planning application reference: CH/20/292. The area of land is currently shown in the plan as consisting of two areas of tennis courts and an immediately adjacent building.
2. Lea Hall Tennis Club is an Unincorporated Community Group, with at least 21 local members, and is therefore a body eligible to make the application under section 89 of the Act.
3. The Nomination made by Lea Hall Tennis Club meets the requirements of the Assets of Community Value (England) Regulations 2012 ("the Regulations").
4. The land does not fall within a description of land which may not be included in the list as specified in Schedule 1 of the Regulations.
5. The land currently appears to consist of four separate tennis courts, and an adjacent small building. Planning Application reference: CH/20/292, in respect of the land, was considered by the Council's Planning Control Committee on 3rd February 2021. The officer report contains information from Sport England, based upon their discussions with the planning applicant. It is stated that two of the four courts had not been used in over 10 years and are in a state of disrepair. The applicant also considered that there were currently no more than 25 users of the remaining courts and that it was unlikely that the Tennis Club would be able to obtain sufficient funding to bring the two redundant courts back into use.
6. The nomination states that the tennis club currently has 15 members using the available courts regularly 3 days a week, and a further 14 members using the facilities another day. It states that the club has taken part in the local tennis league, holds regular coaching sessions with school pupils during term time and that it serves the local areas of Rugeley and Brereton.
7. The use of the land as tennis courts is not an ancillary use and is a use that furthers the social interests of the local community. At the time of the nomination, therefore, it could be considered as having a community use.
8. Notwithstanding its current community use, in deciding whether the land should be listed, I am required to consider whether it is realistic to think that there can continue to be non-ancillary use of the land which will further the social wellbeing or social interests of the local community.
9. It should be noted that the community asset listing process is not a mechanism designed to regulate the planning use of land. That aspect is determined under the separate statutory planning process. The listing process is merely a mechanism whereby community organisations may be informed of a landowner's intention to dispose of a community asset, and whereby any such disposal can be delayed for a limited time to enable community groups to consider and offer their own bids to purchase the land. The landowner is not required to sell their land to a community group and is not prevented from submitting a planning application to change the use of the land.

10. In this case, the landowner has already submitted a planning application for change of use of the land. Application reference: CH/20/292 proposes the development of 14 residential units on the land. The application was determined by the Council's Planning Control Committee on 3rd February 2021. The Committee decided that the application should be approved.
11. In light of the fact that permission is to be granted for change of use of the land to enable development of residential units, I do not consider that it is realistic to think that the land can continue to serve a community use under the terms of s.88 of the Localism Act 2011.

Cardigan Place Community Garden, Hednesford

The reasons for the decision to not list the land at the Cardigan Place Community Garden are as follows:

1. The land lies within the District of Cannock Chase. The nomination covers an area of land shown as edged yellow, and labelled "A" within the nomination.
2. Hednesford Town Council is a body eligible to make the application under section 89 of the Act.
3. The Nomination made by Hednesford Town Council meets the requirements of the Assets of Community Value (England) Regulations 2012 ("the Regulations").
4. The land does not fall within a description of land which may not be included in the list as specified in Schedule 1 of the Regulations.
5. The land is a small piece of land in Hednesford Town centre. It appears to be fenced off on all four sides and is currently overgrown and derelict.
6. The nomination describes a former use of the land as that of a "community garden." It also mentions that such use was "about fifteen years ago."
7. As there appears to be no current community use of this land, s.88(2) of the Localism Act 2011 requires me to consider whether "there is a time in the recent past when an actual use of.....the land that was not an ancillary use furthered the social wellbeing or interests of the local community", and whether "it is realistic to think that there is a time in the next five years when there could be non-ancillary use of the.....land that would further....the social wellbeing or social interests of the local community".
8. The current state of the land is not commensurate with a community use and the land does not appear accessible to the public. There is no detail within the nomination as to what the "community garden" use consisted of, and more information would need to be provided to substantiate a claim of previous community use. However, it does appear to acknowledge that the land was last used in this way around fifteen years ago. I do not consider that this would constitute a "recent" community use of the land in any event.

9. The Town Council advise that they have approached the owner with a view to purchasing, or managing, the land for community use. It appears that the owner did not wish to sell, or otherwise open up access to the land, as he intends to develop the land in conjunction with other adjoining land (albeit there does not appear to be any current planning consent for development of the land in this way).
10. Given the long period of time that the land has not been used by the community, the fact that the land appears inaccessible to the public and would serve no immediately apparent community purpose in its current state, and the fact that the owner does not wish to allow community access to his land, I do not find sufficient evidence to suggest that it would be realistic to think that the land could be brought into community use within the next five years.

Cannock Wood Methodist Chapel, Cannock Wood

The reasons for the decision to not list the Cannock Wood Methodist Chapel are as follows:

1. The chapel lies within the District of Cannock Chase. The nomination covers the chapel building itself. There is no adjoining land.
2. Cannock Wood Parish Council is a body eligible to make the application under section 89 of the Act.
3. The Nomination made by the Parish Council meets the requirements of the Assets of Community Value (England) Regulations 2012 (“the Regulations”).
4. The chapel does not fall within a description of land which may not be included in the list as specified in Schedule 1 of the Regulations.
5. The nomination states that “This [is] one of the oldest buildings in Cannock Wood. Built in 1836 and used continually ever since. It is well loved, decorated inside and outside, and maintained as far as current funding will allow. There is a weekly religious service. The occasional flower displays and fundraising events for local needs.”
6. The physical appearance and heritage value of the building itself is not relevant to whether the building should be listed as a community asset. The listing process is purely concerned with the use of the building. The chapel appears to still be in use, and there is no evidence to suggest that it is being used differently than it has in the recent past. The question is, therefore, whether the actual current use, that is not ancillary, will further the social wellbeing or social interests of the local community.
7. The primary (or non-ancillary) use of the building appears to be as a place of religious worship. The nomination states that there is a weekly religious service. The “occasional flower displays and fundraising events” do not appear to be primary uses of the building and would appear to be ancillary to the main use of the building as a chapel.
8. Section 88(6) of the Act defines “social interests” as including, in particular, each of the following: (a) cultural interests, (b) recreational interests, (c) sporting interests. Religious interests do not clearly fall within this definition.

9. In the case of General Conference of the New Church v Bristol City Council (CR/2014/0013), the First Tier Tribunal considered that the expression “social wellbeing and social interests..... does not encompass religious observances in a church, mosque or synagogue etc, and that such a building will not in practice fall within section 88 unless there is some other non-ancillary use being made of it, which does further social wellbeing/social interests of the local community”.
10. While the nomination does mention that weekly religious services are held, it does not provide any evidence of how the social interests of the local community are being furthered.

The Rag at Rawnsley, Rawnsley, Cannock

The reasons for the decision to not list the Rag at Rawnsley are as follows:

1. The property lies within the District of Cannock Chase. The nomination is not clear in the full extent of property that is included in the nomination, but an aerial view of the land shows it as encompassing a large building with adjoining car park and ancillary garden area.
2. Cannock Wood Parish Council is a body eligible to make the application under section 89 of the Act.
3. The Nomination made by the Parish Council meets the requirements of the Assets of Community Value (England) Regulations 2012 (“the Regulations”).
4. The nomination states that “Originally a Beer House run by local mining families called The New Inn. It has been known locally as The Rag since it was built in close proximity to The Old Rag listed next to it on the census of 1891 although records show The New Inn on the census of 1881. It remained mainly in its original condition until it was purchased in the 20th century by Ansell’s part of Allied Breweries. This was the only Public House that had no spirits licence until a former shopkeeper from Heath Hayes became the landlord in the 1970’s. During that time until the present the building has been updated and extended but the original building is still in place and now officially named The Rag.”
5. The physical appearance and heritage value of the building itself is not relevant to whether the building should be listed as a community asset. The listing process is purely concerned with the use of the building. The nomination provides no information regarding the current, or even past community use of the building.
6. The premises has a business website (www.theragatrawnsely.co.uk). It describes itself as a “country inn” and states that its “one goal in mind” is “providing an enjoyable dining experience.” However, it also advertises itself as a good location for visitors to stay and visit nearby attractions such as Lichfield, Beaudesert Golf Club, Drayton Manor Park and Zoo and Alton Towers. To this end the premises offers 7 en-suite bedrooms and motorhome pitches. The building does also provide a bar area that is available for diners and others to use.
7. Schedule 1 of the Assets of Community Value Regulations 2012, provides a list of assets that may not be listed as community assets. In particular “hotels”, or buildings which are “otherwise principally used for letting or licensing accommodation to paying occupants”, cannot be listed as community assets. It is therefore important to establish whether the hotel/accommodation use is the primary use of the premises. The nomination does not assist with this.

8. On the face of it the building appears to have 3 highlighted uses. Guest accommodation, restaurant, and bar area. The adjoining land appears to be used ancillary to one or other of these uses. The premises can only be listed if there is a non-ancillary use of the premises that furthers the social wellbeing or social interests of the local community.
9. The nomination does not offer any evidence to suggest that any of the highlighted uses further the social wellbeing or social interests of a “local community.” The business website itself portrays the business as a destination site for visitors/tourists. It is therefore impossible to determine whether the premises are used predominantly by regular users and the local community rather than infrequent visitors from further afield. Neither does the nomination offer any information to show what the main current use of the building is. It is therefore impossible to determine whether there is a current community use based upon the nomination received.
10. For the reasons set out above, the nomination of this land is unsuccessful, and the land will not be entered on the list of community assets.

Nunswell, Cumberledge Hill, Cannock Wood, WS15 4SE

The reasons for the decision to not list Nunswell are as follows:

- 1 The property lies within the District of Cannock Chase. The nomination is for the listing of a well within “the area of the oak tree.”
- 2 Cannock Wood Parish Council is a body eligible to make the application under section 89 of the Act
- 3 The Nomination made by the Parish Council meets the requirements of the Assets of Community Value (England) Regulations 2012 (“the Regulations”).
- 4 The nomination states that “Early records how that this well was originally used by Hermits Clement & Hervey in 1141. Carved from mudstone into the Spring below and enhanced with brickwork during the sixteenth century. The well is under a large established oak tree with rubbish acuminate beneath. The site is not clearly marked however visitors do visit the site via a public footpath then into private land which is in open fields belonging to the Equestrian Centre. The only public access is through the Nuns Well Car Park which is owned by Cannock Chase District Council.”
- 5 In order to qualify as “land of community value”, there must be an actual current use of the land, that is not an ancillary use, which furthers the social wellbeing or social interests of the local community. Alternatively, if there is no current community use, there must be a time in the recent past when the land was actually used as such (section 88 of the Localism Act 2011).
- 6 The physical appearance and heritage value of the land itself is not relevant to whether the land should be listed as a community asset. The listing process is only concerned with the use of the land. The current nomination focuses purely on the historical value of a well situated on the land. It provides no information regarding how this land is used and why such use furthers the “social” wellbeing/interests of the local community.

- 7 In addition, the nomination provides no evidence to suggest that any community use of the well should be considered as the primary use of that land and not ancillary to a non-community use of a wider area of land.
- 8 For the reasons set out above, the nomination of this land is unsuccessful, and the land will not be entered on the list of community assets.

Carpark, Broad Street, Bridgtown, Cannock

The reasons for the decision to not list Carpark, Broad Street, Bridgtown are as follows:

1. The property lies within the District of Cannock Chase. The nomination is for the listing of land used as a car park.
2. Bridgtown Parish Council is a body eligible to make the application under section 89 of the Act.
3. The Nomination made by the Parish Council meets the requirements of the Assets of Community Value (England) Regulations 2012 (“the Regulations”).
4. The nomination states that “the car park is in constant use by residents, businesses and customers to the businesses in the area”.
5. In order to qualify as “land of community value”, there must be an actual current use of the land, that is not an ancillary use, which furthers the social wellbeing or social interests of the local community. Social interests are defined in the Localism Act as including cultural, recreational or sporting interests.
6. It is accepted that the land is used as a car park and that this is a non-ancillary use of the land. However, the nomination fails to identify how this use furthers the social wellbeing or social interests of the local community. In particular, the nomination focuses on the benefit that the car park brings to local business, but does not state how it furthers the cultural, recreational or sporting interests of the local community.
7. For the reasons set out above, the nomination of this land is unsuccessful, and the land will not be entered on the list of community assets.
